

CQ418

To: White House Council on Environmental Quality Task Force
From: Dorothy

Altering the National Environmental Policy Act is tantamount to slowly destroying our own lives, and dashes any hopes we have for future generations. We are an essential part of the ecosystem called earth, and it is our duty as the most intelligent creatures to take steps to preserve what natural beauty exists.

Any alterations to NEPA would be selfish and inconsiderate to the fact that we inhabit this earth as neighbors to other humans, animals, and plants. Sacrificing lives is the last option, and should not even be considered.

We implore that any alterations made be to better the Policy act, in turn bettering the environment, which is inextricably connected to our own lives.

Actions speak louder than any words you can offer. So, please prevent any negative changes to the NEPA. Little steps taken now will do so much for the future - our future.

Thank You for your time.
